A YEAR OF IMPACT: CULTIVATING HOPE & OPPORTUNITY

Dear Community Partners & Friends,

Over the past year, we have been inspired by the countless ways our community continues to learn, grow, and thrive together. Dr. Phillips Charities continues to make grants that create meaningful change by expanding opportunity, uplifting voices, and bringing neighbors together to build stronger, more connected communities.

In 2025, Dr. Phillips Charities invested in nonprofit partners whose programs strengthen families, elevate the arts, expand access to education, preserve cultural heritage, and open pathways to economic mobility. From expanding access in classrooms and strengthening workforce training to celebrating our region's cultural vibrancy, honoring historic communities, and nurturing the next generation of leaders, each grant represents a step toward a more resilient and hopeful future.

The work highlighted here is not ours alone. It is the result of deep partnerships, shared trust, and a steadfast commitment to helping others help themselves. As we look ahead, we remain guided by the Phillips family's legacy and energized by the opportunities before us.

Thank you for joining us in building a stronger Central Florida, one rooted in compassion, collaboration, and community impact.

THE EATONVILLE INITIATIVE

A CATALYST FOR RESIDENT CENTERED PRESERVATION & LIMITLESS OPPORTUNITY

The Eatonville Initiative represents a significant and deeply intentional commitment to one of America's most historic Black communities. Focused on the historic Hungerford Property, the Initiative's mission is to honor and safeguard Eatonville's legacy while supporting a thriving, empowered community and promoting economic vitality for all generations.

Guided by a vision to serve as a catalyst for resident-centered preservation and limitless opportunity, Dr. Phillips Charities, in partnership with the Eatonville Initiative Advisory Committee, is working to build upon Eatonville's proud heritage while supporting a future that celebrates Black history, empowers residents, and creates lasting opportunity, connection, and economic vitality for generations to come.

Dr. Phillips Charities approaches this work with respect for Eatonville's history, governance, and residents. Following execution of the Purchase and Sale Agreement, Dr. Phillips Charities entered a period of exploration and collaborative planning to ensure the land's future is informed, responsible, and aligned with the Town's goals. GROWING SKILLS. STRENGTHENING COMMUNITY.

MORNING STAR SCHOOL EXPANSION

This Spring, Dr. Phillips Charities awarded a $500,000 grant to Morning Star Catholic School for a transformative campus expansion that increases access to special education in the face of long-standing demand for services.

The new facility will add four flexible classrooms, serving up to 30 additional students, and introducing purpose-built spaces that elevate learning and well-being. These spaces include an upgraded Life Skills Lab, a SMART Lab for STEAM learning, an on-site medical clinic, decompression rooms for self-regulation, observation rooms for professional learning, and collaborative planning space for staff. Within three to five years of opening, Morning Star expects to increase enrollment from 70 to 100 students.

Additionally, the expansion will enable the school to offer ESE or behavioral professional development opportunities for educators and implement an improved behavioral support model.

THE NEW UCP OF CENTRAL FLORIDA KISSIMMEE CAMPUS

A commitment of $750,000 was made to UCP of Central Florida to support the construction of a new, 37,000-square-foot, state-of-the-art school in downtown Kissimmee.

The campus is designed to expand access to inclusive education and therapy services for children of all abilities. Inside, students will learn and grow in adaptive classrooms, dedicated therapy and intervention spaces, collaborative learning environments, and family-centered support areas designed to meet a wide range of needs.

This expansion means greater access to early intervention and specialized services during critical developmental years, along with reduced waitlists and stronger connections to care and support. It also strengthens UCP's ability to serve as a hub in the downtown Kissimmee community.

For families navigating developmental delays, disabilities, or unique learning needs, access to integrated education and therapy services can be life changing. By bringing academics, therapy, and family engagement together under one roof, UCP creates continuity of care that supports students and their families.

Dr. Phillips Charities' investment reflects a simple belief: when children of all abilities learn side by side, entire communities become stronger, more connected, and more inclusive.

SPECIAL HEARTS FARM'S NEW HOME

In 2025, Special Hearts Farm reached a milestone in its mission to provide hands-on agricultural experiences for individuals with unique abilities. With a $124,000 grant from Dr. Phillips Charities and additional community support, the organization advanced a key component of its Forever Home project: a new outdoor social engagement area within its campus.

This grant strengthens the Farm's long-term vision of creating a permanent space where adults with diverse abilities gain confidence, job skills, and community connection. The support funds the construction of a covered pavilion and an animal-watering station, expanding the farm's capacity for hands-on job training in animal care and farm operations, peer interaction and social development in a safe outdoor setting, and weekend work opportunities that build experience while supporting daily farm needs.

Special Hearts Farm offers Adult Day Training, Supported Employment, and entrepreneurial opportunities for program participants, affectionately known as "Special Farmers." These programs empower individuals who may have been denied college or employment pathways elsewhere, providing them with safe environments to learn, work, and thrive.

Founder and President Kathy Meena expressed deep gratitude for the partnership, noting that the new structures will "provide enhanced job skill-building opportunities for our Special Farmers."

WORKFORCE TRAINING AT VALENCIA COLLEGE

Dr. Phillips Charities awarded a $600,000 grant to Valencia College to expand workforce training opportunities and strengthen student support services across Central Florida. The funding will provide 100 unemployed or underemployed individuals with access to Valencia's Accelerated Skills Training (AST) certification programs: fast-tracked, industry-aligned credentials designed to move participants quickly into high-demand, high-wage careers through hands-on technical training, career coaching and job placement support, and direct pathways to local employers.

The grant will also expand Valencia College's campus food pantries, an essential resource for students experiencing food insecurity. These services will increase food inventory and distribution capacity, enhance storage and refrigeration infrastructure, and broaden outreach to ensure more students are aware of available support. For those balancing work, family, and academics, consistent access to nutrition is essential for success and persistence.

EXPANDING ACCESS TO ARTS & CULTURE

THE NEW ROLLINS MUSEUM OF ART

In demonstration of Dr. Phillips Charities' commitment to strengthening arts and education in Central Florida, a $250,000 grant was awarded this Fall to Rollins College for construction of the new Rollins Museum of Art.

Rollins College and Dr. Phillips Charities share the belief that arts access and cultural innovation are essential to a thriving, engaged community. The new Rollins Museum of Art, part of the emerging "Innovation Triangle" alongside The Alford Inn and the Rollins College Institute for Management & Executive Leadership, will serve as a dynamic nexus of creativity, leadership development, and hospitality.

The re-envisioned Rollins Museum of Art will more than double its gallery space, allowing the College to host a broader range of traveling exhibitions and showcase more of its permanent collection of over 6,000 works. This expansion will enhance the region's cultural landscape and improve access to art for students, residents, and visitors. Construction is underway, with completion expected in late Fall 2027.

"The new Rollins Museum of Art will serve as a cornerstone for creativity and innovation in Central Florida," said Ken Robinson, President & CEO of Dr. Phillips Charities. "Dr. Phillips Charities is proud to invest in a project that not only enhances our region's cultural vitality but also reflects our mission of helping others help themselves through education and the arts."

AMPLIFYING LITERARY VOICES

The Literary Arts Council of Central Florida received $30,000 to bring the 34th Annual Southern Fried Slam Festival to Orlando and to support the powerful #ReviveZora campaign dedicated to honoring and restoring the legacy of literary icon Zora Neale Hurston.

The Southern Fried Slam Festival is one of the nation's premier spoken word and poetry slam competitions, drawing top poets from across the country for multi-day performances, workshops, and community events. Hosting the festival in Orlando places Central Florida at the heart of a vibrant national conversation about storytelling, creativity, and artistic expression.

Through this grant, the Literary Arts Council of Central Florida welcomed hundreds of poets, educators, students, and arts supporters, generating meaningful cultural engagement and economic activity while amplifying diverse voices.

By supporting both the festival and campaign, Dr. Phillips Charities helps Orlando remain a destination for powerful literary experiences and voices that shape cultural understanding.

EMPOWERING YOUNG MINDS

Orlando Family Stage, Florida's only professional theatre dedicated entirely to children and families, marked its 100th anniversary with a transformative Centennial Celebration. Supported by a generous $500,000 gift from Dr. Phillips Charities, this milestone year amplified the theatre's mission of empowering young people to be brave and empathetic through quality theatrical experiences.

For the past 60 years, Dr. Phillips Charities has been a steadfast supporter of Orlando Family Stage. This latest gift underscores its shared commitment to promoting literacy, creativity, and inclusion for children and families in Orange and Osceola Counties.

"As we honor 100 years of empowering young people, our Centennial Celebration and inaugural Florida Children's Book Festival are catalysts for our next century," said Chris Brown, Executive Director of Orlando Family Stage. "With the support of Dr. Phillips Charities, we are positioning ourselves as a national leader in Theatre for Young Audiences."

The Centennial Celebration is centered on literature-based learning and performance, blending robust educational content with imaginative storytelling. Expanded in-school residencies, enriched curriculum resources, and live performances based on beloved books aim to foster literacy development, empathy, and creativity. These initiatives will engage over 120,000 children and families in schools, community settings, and the theatre itself.

As part of the grant, more than 2,000 students and families from under-resourced communities will attend productions for free, ensuring all children, regardless of background, can experience the transformative power of live theatre.

With the support of Dr. Phillips Charities and the Central Florida community, Orlando Family Stage is poised to continue shaping young hearts and minds for generations to come.

HELPING LEARNING TAKE ROOT

CREATING SAFE SPACES

Dr. Phillips Charities' $500,000 grant to New Image Youth Center (NIYC) supports the construction of a permanent, purpose-built campus in the Parramore community.

For more than 20 years, NIYC has been a trusted source of stability, encouragement, and opportunity for children and teens in Parramore. Through high-quality after-school and summer programming, NIYC supports students academically, socially, and emotionally to help young people not only succeed in school but also envision and pursue meaningful futures.

The new campus will include flexible classrooms, technology labs, indoor and outdoor recreation areas, a full-service kitchen, and dedicated clinical mental health and play therapy spaces. More than a building, it will serve as a community hub that enhances its programs, strengthens family engagement, and expands wraparound supports.

Once complete, the campus will allow NIYC to increase its annual student capacity to 150 youth while enriching services for neighborhood families. NIYC aims to sustain a 100% high school graduation rate among active seniors and offer eight specialized programs across the arts, STEM, wellness, and leadership.

BUILDING STRONG READERS

This Spring, The REED Charitable Foundation received a $50,000 grant for the early literacy program at Thacker Avenue Elementary School in Osceola County that ensures young students develop the reading skills essential for lifelong learning. The grant expands a pilot program providing access to a high-quality, research-aligned literacy program focused on kindergarten through second grade, which is a critical period when early reading success has a powerful influence on future academic achievement.

Through this initiative, teachers receive hands-on professional development, practical instructional tools, and ongoing coaching to support consistent, effective reading instruction across classrooms. The focus on strengthening teaching practices has already yielded measurable results. In the program's pilot year, participating students demonstrated reading growth at rates up to three times the national average, helping to close early learning gaps for children who enter school without access to early childhood education.

Beyond immediate gains in student achievement, this investment strengthens the school's instructional systems, creating the conditions for high-quality literacy practices to be sustained over time. By empowering educators and prioritizing early intervention, the program helps more students enter later grades as confident, capable readers positioned for long-term success.

REMOVING OBSTACLES

While early learning sets the foundation for future education, student success often depends on addressing broader challenges that families face as children grow. Dr. Phillips Charities awarded a $100,000 grant to Heart of Florida United Way (HFUW) to launch Osceola County's first Community School at Osceola High School, a Title I campus serving more than 2,400 students.

Sixty-seven percent of students qualify for free or reduced-price lunch, and many come from ALICE (Asset Limited, Income Constrained, Employed) households. Academic indicators highlight significant need, with 16% of students proficient in math and 31% in reading, compared to a state average of 52%. The Community School model addresses these challenges by integrating academic support with coordinated family services.

Through a 10-year partnership with the Osceola County School District, higher education institutions, healthcare providers, and community organizations, the school will serve as a hub connecting students and families to essential resources. Services will include after-school academic programming, on-site healthcare access, financial literacy education, college and career readiness support, and a family resource market offering food, clothing, hygiene items, and school supplies. Investments in teacher training, data systems, and coordinated service delivery will ensure supports are aligned with student and family needs.

GROWING A CREATIVE-TECH PIPELINE

Recently, Dr. Phillips Charities made a $2.5 million grant to Orange County Public Schools (OCPS) to renovate the two-story theatre in the historic Cherokee School. The Della Phillips Theatre will be an integral part of The School of Arts & Entertainment at Cherokee, a first-of-its-kind public high school dedicated to contemporary arts, digital media, immersive technologies, sound design, and cinematic production.

Serving approximately 660 students annually, the school is designed to address a regional gap in access to high-quality arts and technology education while building a direct pipeline into Central Florida's growing creative-tech economy. Developed in partnership with industry leaders, the curriculum blends core academics with hands-on production work and industry-aligned training.

Beginning in ninth grade, students will build foundational skills across arts and technology disciplines before specializing in Sound Design, Emerging Media (Visual Art & Design), or Cinematic Arts in the upper grades. Throughout their studies, students will earn professional certifications, including in emerging AI-enhanced creative tools, and graduate with portfolios and production experience that demonstrate readiness for both postsecondary education and entry into creative careers. Beyond student achievement, the campus will serve as a community hub that strengthens Orlando's broader creative ecosystem and helps build a diverse, locally rooted workforce.

EXPANDING HEALTHY FOOD ACCESS

HEBNI NUTRITION CONSULTANTS

This Spring, Dr. Phillips Charities awarded a $206,000 grant to Hebni Nutrition Consultants (Hebni Nutrition) to expand access to affordable, nutritious food. Through the launch of Fresh Stop Express, a new grab-and-go café offering healthy, delicious, pre-prepared meals and snacks at the Nutrition Resource Center near Camping World Stadium, Hebni Nutrition will expand its work bringing fresh fruits and vegetables into food deserts.

Fresh Stop Express increases access to affordable, nutritious, ready-to-eat meals for individuals and families who face barriers related to time, transportation, or cost. By offering reduced-price meal kits and prepared foods, the café provides a practical, dignified solution for healthier eating. As part of a broader campus enhancement effort, Hebni Nutrition's Resource Center improvements include an inviting outdoor seating area, raised community garden beds, improved signage for accessibility, and interior renovations to create additional office space and expanded storage for produce and operations.

Dr. Phillips' grant will allow Hebni Nutrition to serve at least 400 unduplicated individuals annually via Fresh Stop Express. This initiative illustrates how physical infrastructure investments can translate directly into improved food access and healthier choices for the community.

NURTURING LEADERSHIP & COMMUNITY

UCF CROSSROADS SPEAKER SERIES

The University of Central Florida's fifth Crossroads Speaker Series brought together students, business leaders, and community partners for an evening highlighting the role of education, philanthropy, and corporate collaboration in developing future leaders.

The keynote discussion featured the insights of Jennifer Flynn Dear, Managing Director of Corporate Affairs for KPMG US. Moderated by Sherry Magee, Senior Director of Community Relations at the KPMG Lakehouse and a UCF College of Business alumna, the conversation offered an inside look at purpose-driven corporate leadership.

Ms. Jennifer Flynn Dear highlighted KPMG's philanthropic initiatives, including literacy programs and investments in innovation and AI training, and emphasized the importance of integrating philanthropy and volunteerism into corporate culture to strengthen both community impact and employee leadership development.

RAISING THE STAGE WITH HOLIDAY MAGIC

Each holiday season, Dr. Phillips Charities creates opportunities for children and families across Central Florida to experience the arts in meaningful ways. In 2025, two signature celebrations, the annual Nutcracker community performance and the Holiday Pops concert at The Grove Park in The Packing District, brought thousands together during the holiday season.

A COMMUNITY PERFORMANCE OF ORLANDO BALLET'S THE NUTCRACKER

Dr. Phillips Charities continued a community tradition by partnering with the Orlando Ballet to provide a complete performance of The Nutcracker for more than 1,000 guests from nonprofit and community partner organizations. Families from groups such as the Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Florida, Special Hearts Farm, Make-A-Wish, Ronald McDonald House Charities, UCP of Central Florida, Family Promise of Greater Orlando, Lift Orlando, and many others filled the Dr. Phillips Center for the Performing Arts.

Before the performance, families enjoyed hands-on holiday activities, festive photo opportunities, and story time with Orlando Ballet dancers.

For seven-year-old Sagan, a Boys & Girls Clubs participant, the performance was unforgettable: "I loved seeing 'The Nutcracker.' It was so funny. I really loved the goose. The dancers were so amazing that they really made my heart sing. They made me want to dance, too!"

Jamie Merrill, President & CEO of Boys & Girls Clubs of Central Florida, emphasized the event's impact: "Opportunities like this are powerful for our kids as they open doors to experiences many would not otherwise have access to. Exposure to the arts expands their horizons, sparks creativity, and helps young people begin to imagine futures they may not have known were possible."

THE TRADITION OF HOLIDAY POPS

The spirit of celebration continued with the 3rd Annual Holiday Pops concert at Della Phillips Pavilion in The Packing District.

Under the direction of Music Director Eric Jacobsen, the Orlando Philharmonic Orchestra performed seasonal favorites including The Nutcracker Suite, Sleigh Ride, Festive Sounds of Hanukkah, and It's the Most Wonderful Time of the Year. A Holiday Market featuring local vendors complemented the evening, creating additional opportunities for community connection and support for small businesses.

What began as a single holiday gesture has grown into a powerful annual tradition, one that celebrates community, nurtures belonging, and ensures that children and families across Central Florida can experience the transformative joy of the arts.
